LSUHNO School of Nursing
Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner Program

Pursue your Psychiatric Mental Health DNP degree at the only nursing school within an academic health science center that is the only recognized National League for Nursing Center of Excellence for Nursing Education in Louisiana

The LSU Health New Orleans School of Nursing has developed a Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner concentration to prepare DNP graduates for evidence-based psychiatric mental health nursing practice with culturally diverse populations across the lifespan in a variety of mental health care settings.

The post-baccalaureate program of study, consists of 94 credit hours, will prepare graduates to attain certification as psychiatric mental health nurse practitioners.

The mission of the Psychiatric-Mental Health Nurse Practitioner program is to:

1. Prepare graduates for autonomous evidence-based psychiatric mental health nursing practice with culturally diverse populations across the lifespan in a variety of mental health care settings.
2. Maintain a quality program that meets national accreditation and state regularity standards.
3. Prepare graduates to attain certification as psychiatric-mental health nurse practitioners.
4. Promote development in leadership and scholarship through mentoring and professional role socialization.
