

Meeting of the Minds

December 14, 2022 • 9:00 am - 2:00 pm
LSUHNO School of Nursing, Room 4A5

Create an engaging, productive workplace culture

Without self-aware employees, high-performing teams and a positive culture, your organization will experience challenges in communication, collaboration, productivity and employee retention.

Through the Meeting of the Minds, employees are empowered to use their strengths to achieve their potential and organizations are given the tools to maximize performance and create positive cultures.

Workshop Results

After attending an Emergenetics Meeting of the Minds, positive change happens. A recent survey found:

More than 80% of attendees gain enhanced self-awareness.

Nearly 70% of attendees report improved working relationships.

Over 60% of attendees experienced better collaboration.

Learning Objectives:

1. Evaluate your thinking and behaving preferences through experiential learning.
2. Examine how your preferred behavioral attributes affect others' perception of your preferred thinking attributes.
3. Discover how appreciating your strengths and those of others supports a positive culture and optimizes team performance.
4. Explore how to inspire people and organizations to thrive by offering a simpler, easier way to understand each other and build relationships that drive performance.
5. Evaluate how the WeTeam approach can improve the quality and efficiency of team work.

Who should attend a Meeting of the Minds?

Our target audience is registered nurses, students, faculty, and other healthcare professionals. The Meeting of the Minds is designed for leaders, managers, and individual contributors as well as team and broader employee groups who are interested in:

- Gaining self-awareness
- Developing leadership and managerial skills
- Communicating more productively
- Strengthening collaboration and team development
- Learning to problem solve more effectively

Time Well Spent

Designed for adult learning and led by a certified facilitator, the program's content is simple to understand, immediately applicable, engaging, and entertaining.

Participants take part in a series of activities designed to ensure retention and applicaiton in the workplace and will:

- Explore the science and seven Attributes of the Emergenetics Profile.
- Discover their personal Thinking and Behavioral preferences.
- Find new ways to interact and collaborate with others.
- Uncover a common language that unifies teams and company culture.

Participants will earn 4.5 contact hours of nursing continuing professional development.
