CULTURAL CONGRUENT ADVISEMENT

Thursday, June 27th, 2024 (9:00 -11:00 am) via the Zoom Platform

Activity Description/Overview:
As higher education becomes increasingly diverse, advisors must be equipped to meet the varied needs of students from different cultural backgrounds, fostering an inclusive and supportive academic environment. Adopting these practices helps institutions reduce achievement gaps, promote equity, and enhance their overall culture and reputation. By empowering advisors with the necessary tools and knowledge, this professional development activity will build confidence and competence, aligning with institutional goals related to diversity, equity, and inclusion, and demonstrating a commitment to a supportive and inclusive academic environment.

This educational session aims to equip academic advisors and faculty with the knowledge and skills needed to provide culturally congruent advisement. This approach focuses on understanding and integrating students' cultural backgrounds into their academic support, ultimately enhancing retention and success rates.
