We have seen an increase in the number of students having issues with malware being detected on their computers. If you receive the following message or one similar to it from our Information Technology Department, you are expected to respond immediately. This is a serious issue and not one that can be taken care of at your leisure. Chancellor’s Memorandum 42 states that all users of the System IT infrastructure are expected to exhibit responsible behavior and shall actively participate and cooperate with the Office of Computer Services in the protection of the System IT infrastructure against threats. If you do not respond you are subject to disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.

Dear Student:

Malware has been detected on your computer. Please do not connect to the LSUHSC network. You must send an email to NSComputerSupport@lsuhsc.edu immediately to schedule a time you can meet with one of us to resolve this issue.

When you come to that meeting, please bring any devices (cell phone, laptops, iPads, etc.) you use on campus with you. We will need to determine which device address matches the reported incident. We will check your computers for updated anti-virus and anti-malware software. We will also check that the operating system is updated. You may check them yourself and scan before you meet with us.

Please respond immediately.
